

SHAREECE WRIGHT

KEYNOTE SPEAKER | SURVIVOR ADVOCATE | NFL VETERAN

ABOUT

Shareece Wright spent 8 seasons as a cornerback in the NFL, playing for the San Diego Chargers, Baltimore Ravens, Buffalo Bills, and Houston Texans. Today he is a keynote speaker, survivor advocate, high school football coach at Aquinas High School in San Bernardino, CA, and founder of the RENEE Foundation. His talks draw from his journey of resilience, loss, and purpose, moving audiences from corporate boardrooms to school assemblies.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING

"Shareece does not just speak, he transforms the room. Our executive audience left renegotiating their own sense of purpose. One of the most emotionally powerful keynotes we have ever hosted."

- Director of Events, National Corporate Leadership Summit

"Student engagement was off the charts. Shareece connected with our undergrads in ways seasoned academics rarely do. Attendance doubled by word of mouth after his first session."

- Program Director, Student Success Center, California State University

"His fentanyl awareness talk gave our community the language it needed to grieve and act. We have brought him back twice and the demand keeps growing."

- Executive Director, San Bernardino County Youth Prevention Coalition
